ADDRESS OF THE PEOPLE OF NEW ORLEANS.

A New Orleans dispatch of the 24th instant says:

The Committee of seventy five has issued a voluminous address to the people of the United States, in defense and explanation of the late revolutionary movement. The address is in the form of a report from the Committee appointed at the meeting composed of the Committee of seventy five, the State Central Committee and the Parish Committee and takes the form of an appeal. It sets forth a long series of wrongs from which the State [illegible], claims that McEnery was legally and fairly elected Governor, says the people of the North were generally led into error in believing that the colored voters of Louisiana were in excess of the white voters or that the colored and white Republicans en masse voted for the Kellogg ticket and, by a comparison of figures, shows the white men to be in excess of the colored, and claims that many Republicans, white and colored voted the McEnery ticket. It discusses the means by which the citizens were deprived of their political rights, gives an explanation of the formation and [illegible] of the white league organization [illegible] character it claims has been grossly [illegible]ted, discusses the insurrection [illegible], says that the fight was forced upon the citizens—they did not begin it—and details the story of the surrender and fruitless negotiations of the Compromise Committee, also contains the appeals from the Committee of seventy five to the President dated New Orleans September 9th, protesting against placing troops in Louisiana upon the eve of the election now approaching, under control of officer [illegible] with the usurpation, requesting that if such be done the present Marshal be removed and one appointed who is not an active supporter and leader in the Kellogg Government. In conclusion the address says: "Our side of [illegible] is complete. Nothing remains but submission relieved only by the distant hope that at the sober second thought this great people will reconsider calmly our conduct and devise in their wisdom some means of relief for this unhappy province. Everything is quiet and no trouble is expected.

Says the Union Times: "Hon. J. H. Slater informs us that while in Baker City he was informed by Jas. W. Virtue that galena has been discovered in the Eagle Creek mountains in this county. Mr. J. Johnson is the discoverer and found two qualities, one of which is mixed with gold and silver. The assay is [illegible]—it to be of great value. The Chair stated the history of the bill to be that there was a motion made to refer to a special committee and an amendment to indefinitely postpone, pending which the Senate adjourned, which carried the bill to the table and that the question would now recur on the motion to refer.

Mr. WEBSTER moved to amend by instructing the committee to strike out that clause providing for the appropriation.

SECOND READING OF BILLS.

H. B. No. 3[illegible]—to provide a remedy for the evils arising from the sale of spirituous liquors.

This bill provides a stringent license law and contains the usual provisions of what is known as the Civil Damage law. Sec. 19 provides for submitting the question of license or no license to the people at each general election and thereafter no person shall be permitted to sell intoxicating liquor in less quantities than the original parcel unless it shall appear to the County Court that a majority of the legal voters of the county and of the precinct in which it is proposed to sell shall have voted license yes at such election.

Mr. CHAMBERS moved that the bill be ordered engrossed and read third time to-morrow.

Mr. FIDLER moved to refer to Committee of the Whole.

Mr. GEARIN moved to amend by referring it to the Judiciary Committee. There seems to be in the minds of some a doubt as to the constitutionality of the bill and he thought the bill should go to them. He had no antagonism to the bill but desired to see it passed in proper shape. The amendment was lost. The motion to refer to Committee of the Whole prevailed.

Mr. FIDLER moved that the bill be made the special order for Friday at 2 o'clock. Carried.

Mr. BROWN asked unanimous consent to introduce an amendment.

Mr. FIDLER—I object.

Mr. STOTT moved to amend the bill by striking out section 4, which failed to receive a second.

Then followed a rambling discussion from which it appeared that the bill in its present shape was not satisfactory either to the friends or enemies of a game law.

Mr. GEARIN moved to refer back to the Judiciary Committee, which prevailed.

H. B. No. [illegible], to amend section 8 of title 1 of chapter [illegible] of the general laws in regard to the duties of road supervisors.

THE GRANT CONTESTANT AGAIN.

Mr. CRANSTON moved to take from the table the motion of Mr. Florence made last Friday to reconsider the vote by which the joint resolution to award mileage and per diem to Gilbert Reynolds, late contestant from Grant county, was indefinitely postponed. The motion prevailed, and the House by a vote of [illegible] reconsidered the vote.

The question then before the House was the resolution to award Gilbert Reynolds $[illegible].

Mr. GALLOWAY moved to amend by substituting such sum as would be sufficient to take Mr. Reynolds home and save the House from further importunity on the subject.

Mr. CRANSTON moved to amend the amendment by making the sum $100.

Mr. GEARIN moved to indefinitely postpone the whole subject, which was lost.

Mr. CRANSTON'S amendment was next put and was lost.

Chandler, Crawford, Cranston, Curl, Dick, Dufur, Duffy, Fidler, Florence, Hays, Laughlin, Hollywood, Mays, Matlock, Mitchell, McCoy, Neer, Nichols, Reed of Clackamas, Reed of Marion, Shelton, Simpson, Stannard, Stott, Vanripper, Wilcox, Wright of Jackson, Wright of Union—

Absent—Messrs. Darst and Jackson.

The vote being equal the resolution was lost, after occupying the attention of the House during a great part of the afternoon session.

Mr. RICHARDSON brought up the amended report of the Committee on Mileage and it was adopted.

The House then adjourned.

WASHINGTON COUNTY FAIR.

EIGHTH ANNUAL EXHIBITION OF THE WASHINGTON COUNTY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Second Day.

The morning of the second day of the above Fair opened with a prospect of even more pleasant weather than the first, being just cloudy enough to break the rays of the sun which came down tolerably direct on Monday. Not very many persons remained on the grounds over night and those who went out on the morning train from Portland were about the first arrivals of the day, reaching the Fair grounds at a few minutes after 8 o'clock. There were however but few of them, as people do not like to rise at 5 o'clock these mornings and walk a way below town or up to the Fourth street bridge to catch the cars. Did the train start from Portland at some reasonable hour, say 8 o'clock, a very much larger number of people from the city would doubtless attend the Fair, both to the profit of the Railroad Co. and Washington Agricultural Society and to the pleasure of those choosing to go, but under the present arrangement the special train is a special humbug as far as the convenience of the traveling public is concerned. So far during the week, very few persons have availed themselves of it.

But to return to the Fair. About an hour after the few Portlanders that went out on the train, arrived, those who had remained over night on the grounds began to stir out and by 10 o'clock people began to come in from all directions by almost all the usual methods of conveyance, and by noon there was nearly as large a number present as on the greatest day of the Fair last year. Many of those who came in were exhibitors and brought articles for entry at the office of the Secretary and we found that officer as usual kind and courteous to all, and scores were plying him with numerous queries of all sorts in relation to business connected with the duties of his office. But he had no time to give us any of the details of the business so far during the Fair and until the entries closed but little more than a

GENERAL VIEW

Of matters can be given, that is to say no very definite information can be obtained as to the names of exhibitors of the different articles in the Pavilion or the animals in the stalls. We however managed to find out the

NUMBER OF ENTRIES.

Up to four o'clock this afternoon the Secretary's books showing the total number as five hundred and fifteen, classified as follows:

Class I.—Horses, thoroughbred, for all work, draft, sweepstakes for horses, mares and colts, and jacks and mules. 40 entries. Elisha Bedwell Superintendent.

Class II.—Horses for all work, saddle, draft, walking, trotting, pacing or running to be tested by trial. 2[illegible] entries. H. Boyd Superintendent.

Class III.—Cattle, short horned Durhams, Devons, Herefords, Ayrshire, Alderney, Holstein and Graded. 8 entries. Theo. Witheycomb Superintendent.

Class IV.—Sheep, Spanish, French, American and Australian Merinos, Cotswolds, Southdowners, Leicestershires, Lincolnshire, Graded and Sweepstakes. 29 entries. A. S. Watt Superintendent.

Class V.—Swine and Fowls, Essex, Chester whites, Suffolk, Berkshire, Cross-breeds and Sweepstakes Swine and chickens, geese, ducks, turkeys and Guinea fowls. 22 entries. A. S. Watt Superintendent.

Class VI.—Grains, Seeds and Vegetables and Grain Fields. 70 entries. Robt. Imbrie Superintendent.

Class VII.—Fruits green, embracing apples, pears, plums, peaches, grapes, blackberries and quinces. 7 entries. Wm. Chalmers Superintendent.

Class VIII.—Flowers, fancy work and works of art. 108 entries. Mrs. T. G. Todd Superintendent.

Class IX.—Dairy and house work, domestic manufactures, dried fruits, etc. 135 entries. J. Rowell Superintendent.

Class X.—Mechanical department of Oregon manufacture, embracing wagons, drills, harrows, plows, harness, saddles, cabinet work, chairs, copper work, photographs, boots, shoes, horse-shoeing, etc. 15 entries. Wm. Kane Superintendent.

Class XI.—Shooting, best rifle shot. 4 entries. Isaac Butler Superintendent.

From the above it will be seen that in nearly all departments the entries are quite creditable as to numbers and we are sure that in general character the quality would compare favorably with exhibitions of similar proportions in any country. Two or three classes are poorly filled, such as No. 3 cattle, and No. 10 Mechanics, though there are more entries this year than last in the last named class. The reasons for the seeming deficiencies in both classes are easily arrived at. As to cattle it is generally admitted that S. G. Reed, who is a patron of this Fair, has stock of this class with which but few men on the coast can successfully compete, and the Washington county farmers do not relish the idea of having their fine cattle beaten every year by the still finer and perhaps more costly ones of Mr. Reed, and so they decline to enter. But some of them are gradually bringing their herds to a grade which need not fear competition with the best, and already the Messrs. Robert and James Imbrie, both of whom are taking especial pains with their flocks of sheep, have some on the grounds that are regarded as good as were ever exhibited in Oregon.

The lack in the Mechanical department is accounted for in the fact that the Fair is confined mostly to agriculture, its patrons being nearly all farmers and stockmen and embracing but few manufacturers of any class.

The entries of horses, sheep, swine, grain, seeds, vegetables, flowers and dairy and house work are large comparatively and would reflect credit on older and more pretentious institutions than this Society.

The Pavilion is now well filled. Though not so large as that on the grounds at Salem, the arrangement of articles gives it an exceedingly pretty and pleasant appearance and all through the day it has been crowded with people viewing its attractions. Two or three cabinet organs have been placed in it and the crowds were furnished with an improvement on the music so called which everywhere else on the grounds grates the ear from the various side shows, ground out of a rickety hand organ, scraped off a cracked fiddle, picked off an old banjo or squawked out of the throat of the itinerant showman.

As the entries were not closed until late to-day it is impossible to give details concerning anything except what is actually occurring on the grounds, and though other departments all receive their due share of attention from the crowd present, a large portion is given to

THE HORSE.

At 1 o'clock the announcement was made that the trial of saddle horses entering for the premiums offered by the Society would take place immediately on the track opposite the Judges' stand. The premiums were $10 for best, $5 for second and $2 50 for third ditto. Four entries were made in time and the fifth too late to start in the trial. Those competing were Billy, s g, entered by Thompson Scoggins; Sconchin, r g, by W. G. Scoggins; Iron grey Jack, by John McKernan, and Boston Billy, by J. Wilson. The Judges were Messrs. [illegible] Edward, Wm. Jolly, Sr., and Jas. Imbrie, who ordered the riders to speed their animals in the several gaits for saddle horses in front of the stand. The result was the awarding of the first premium to Billy, second to Sconchin and third to Iron-grey Jack, a just award, though Sconchin might have carried away more premiums had he not carried so much weight in the trial.

THE GRAND RACE OF THE DAY

Took place at 2 o'clock, and a better or more exciting trial of speed and bottom we have seldom seen in Oregon. It was for a purse of $200 to the first, $100 to the second and $50 to the third, two mile heats, best two in three, free for all. The Judges selected were James Imbrie, James B. Stephens and Ben Cornelius. The entries were three in number and three more noble specimens of that noble animal have never graced any racecourse in our State.

Wm. Bigham of Wasco county, entered a ch. h. Foster, 7 years old, by the famous Lexington, a finely formed, well proportioned animal, with clean limbs, a trim head and neck, an eye which beams with horse sense, and flexible nostrils which expand and contract with the breathing from his powerful lungs. His owner, Mr. Bigham, handles him easily, and until he is told to "go" he manifests none of the wild excitement which we have seen in other horses. His deep chest and well turned muscular legs betoken his great powers of endurance.

Wm. Gird of Linn county entered bl. g. Bill Gird, [illegible] years old, by Doc Lindsey, well known to Oregon turfmen as a splendid horse, and every movement by this descendant shows that the colt possesses in an eminent degree the fine points of the sire. Gird is hardly a coal black, but yet is rather too dark to be called a brown. His form is lithe and his motion quick; his head, neck and limbs well turned and proportioned, and his eyes sparkle as he comes up for the start as though he was eager for the word. His owner is justly proud of him and gives the animal his own name. His manner while preparing for the start was rather more excited than that of his competitor, Foster, but he was handled without difficulty.

W. H. Musgrove of Multnomah county entered br. g. Norway, [illegible] years old, by Norwich. His sire has a good reputation, and Norway possesses a good many of the points and characteristics of the stock. His limbs and body are rather longer than are those of Gird, but in his general build, he somewhat resembles that horse. He looked, when brought up on the track, in every way worthy of a place beside the others, and high hopes were placed in his ability to cope with them successfully in the present contest.

Pools had been sold for two hours by Mr. Kilbourn and several hundred dollars were put up by the friends and backers of each horse on the result of the race. Foster was the favorite throughout in the pools, bringing 5 to 2 on each of the others, the two being rated apparently nearly alike.

The weights carried were according to rule, Foster 115 pounds, Gird and Norway each, 87 pounds.

In drawing for positions on the track Foster got the inside, Bill Gird next and Norway outside. But little time was spent before the word to go was given, and the agile black was off like an arrow, gathering himself for the contest with lightning speed, while Norway with almost as quick but rather steadier motion was close upon his heels, and Foster coming down to his work still a little more gradually, as if he knew what was before him, and that the goal was not at the half mile post. On the first quarter the black and brown led, but thence to the three quarter post it was difficult to say which did the best, but on the home stretch Gird began to lose ground while Foster with long and powerful leaps kept Norway down to his gait, and came under the string slightly ahead, showing no signs of weariness, while Gird was perhaps 50 feet in the rear. On by the Judges' stand they sped amid wild excitement, Norway on the second round rather surprising his friends by the gallant way he held his own with the magnificent sorrel, but coming down the home stretch Foster reached out just a full length ahead and won the heat, coming under the string in 3:48, Norway second and Gird about in the same relative position as at the end of the first mile.

None of the horses showed that fatigue which would be expected, and came up to the Judges' stand as full of pluck as ever.

Some pool selling on the second heat now took place, Foster leading the other two about as before.

In half an hour the second heat was called, and by rule Foster still kept his position on the inside track, but Gird and Norway changed places, Gird taking the outside now by the same rule.

The start was again had without difficulty, the black and brown again getting off ahead of the sturdy son of Lexington, and they both led him to the quarter post, when again he came down to work and soon the gap in front of him began to close, and ere the half mile post was reached he shut out the light behind Norway, while Gird seemed to skim along the surface of the track like a bird, holding his own and bringing the sorrel to his prettiest to keep nearly up, which he did like a hero. Down the home stretch came the two very nearly together, Foster gaining slightly and coming under the string on the first mile only a neck ahead of the black, but with three or four lengths the advantage of the brown, for Norway still showed that the race was not to him and seemed wearied, while Gird yet contested the ground with Foster most gallantly. As they went from the stand on the last mile of the second heat, the glorious old sorrel again reached out, and before the half mile post was reached all saw where the meed of victory would go, for Foster still gained on the plucky little black and with his measured steady gait came homeward and under the string a full length and a half ahead of Gird, while Norway, though under the lash, was quite four lengths behind. So Foster took the second heat in 4:01 and the race.

By rule the second premium was awarded to Gird as being second in the last two heats.

FINANCIAL, ETC.

The prospect for the financial success of the Fair is now very good. The receipts for entries on Monday were $750, for licenses near $400, at the gate $300. The receipts of to-day we were not able to ascertain, but they are probably quite encouraging.

The Marshal and his aids succeeded in preserving excellent order, though a large number of the genus hoodlum is as usual on hand, many of them, we are sorry to say, hailing from the metropolis.

So far no news of any serious broil or accident has reached us and the carefulness of the managers to prevent any is quite observable.

The various side shows mentioned yesterday and one or two additional are running along, the proprietor of each trying to out do his rivals in business by gesticulations and loud vociferations of the superior merits of his wonderful combination of curiosities and attractions. Joe Petty, with his face blacked, and a small colored boy mounted behind him, rode Voss' wallopus through the grounds to-day as a sort of street procession for one of his tent shows, and excited a good deal of derisive laughter.

The Palmetto oil man is on the ground and succeeds well in holding Mart Taylor level in the matter of talking with his mouth.

The disposition on the part of the people to patronize these various shows seems to be failing, and when their license is paid, with other expenses we expect some of them will leave the grounds with the profits "in their eye."

CORRECTIONS.

Owing to much confusion we got things slightly incorrect yesterday in regard to one or two of the equines of which we spoke in our report. The gelding Norway, referred to in the race to-day, we erroneously called by a name indicating another gender, and gave the name of Wm. White as the person making the entry, while the facts are the horse is of the male persuasion and was entered in the race on Monday by his owner W. H. Musgrove. And what we called Mr. Gird's s. h. Antelope in the walking race on Monday should have been b. m. Antelope.

WEDNESDAY'S PROGRAMME.

The forenoon will be taken up in the examination of stock, etc.

1 o'clock P. M.—Fastest running horse, mare or gelding, 2 years old, half mile and repeat, $100, $50, $25.

2 o'clock P. M.—Shooting match, $10, $5, $2 50.

THE GREAT TROT

TWENTY THOUSAND PEOPLE IN THE PARK.

[Special Dispatch to the S. F. Call.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 25.—They who have witnessed the Derby or have even seen pictures of it can have some idea of the appearance of the arena of Sacramento's race course and surroundings to-day. Others cannot. In our own country they who have read descriptions of the great race of Lexington and his defeated rival at New Orleans, can have some conception of the scramble and difficulty of the multitude in getting to the Coliseum field of turf amusements. Every vehicle or means of conveyance in the city, every carrier or pack horse was at an early hour brought into requisition to transport the multitude, if not the rank, blood, birth and fashionable world to the Fair Grounds to witness the great trotting match on that course advertised for one o'clock to-day. All suddenly became enamored with the sports of the ancient hippodrome.

"MY KINGDOM FOR A HORSE,"

Was heard on every hand. More than an hour before the time, thousands of the quality and the populace of the Capital, brought thither from all quarters of the State, crowded the amphitheater, the track and the field which it surrounds. Not only were the brawny sons of toil collected here in numbers, but California's fair women, soft as her clime and sunny as her skies, were out in full force, decked with robes of Tyrian purple, and tints surpassing any of which the Orient ever dreamed. As if in imitation of their Spanish predecessors a thousand fans fluttered and ventilated the arena. From the stand of the reporters and judges they looked most beautiful, and filled the air around with beauty. Busily circulating about the grounds were California's enterprising breeders of trotters and of thoroughbreds—Mr. Hall, of Alameda, Mr. Saunders of Sonoma and hosts of others. On the stand were the politicians, railroad builders, and others of national fame. Intelligent reporters of all the dailies nibbed their pencils and prepared to pen down the racing contest.

AN ARMY OF HORSEMEN AND OF CARRIAGES

Filled the interior field, the fences of which, circling for the half mile, the cattle sheds, stock yards and agricultural implement department were covered with the grand retinue of grooms, goatherds, dependents and hangers on of the State exhibition. All the world seemed to think there's something in a flying horse, and the oldest settlers agree that California has never before witnessed so great a multitude or so exciting a race as the assemblage here gathered, and the contest between three of the Golden State's fastest animals. Skies such as never canopied Italy with such clear, soft blue added their bewitching influence. The iron horses of commerce were constantly in the near distance, rapidly drawing trains of cars filled with additional spectators from every point, who poured into the scene of action and amusement.

THE RACE.

The Judges were George Hammond, Edgar Mills and R. S. Carey. Distance Judges, R. Montgomery, G. H. Spaulding. Patrol Judges, F. Townsend, E. Murry. The Timers were E. H. Miller, Dr. Brewster and N. Coombs. The weights of drivers were, McClennan 170 pounds, the other two, each 150.

Purdy was driven by McLennan, Occident by Jimmy Tennant and Blackbird by Dan Dennison. Dan sent the black stallion around the turn several times to wake him up. Jimmy Tennant was quiet, but an anxious look occasionally flitted over his face as old Purdy came by under the whip. The odds were all on Occident, and there was an immense amount of money in the pools. It was generally conceded Occident could beat either of the other horses when going against time.

First Heat.—On starting, Blackbird drew the pole, with Occident on the outside. When the horses came up for a start the black stallion shot ahead and Occident went off his feet. The second trial was much the same, Blackbird feeling finely, with every nerve strained, as though he understood exactly how tough the fight would be. The third time they came up to the scratch, but Occident lost his feet again when crossing the score. The fourth time the horses all came up abreast, but Occident broke, and it was no go. He seemed very much excited. The horses were finally tapped off, Blackbird slightly in the lead, with Occident two lengths behind. Blackbird shot forward like a streak. Occident threw his head into the air and scattered, falling back some twenty yards. Purdy now began to lessen daylight between him and Blackbird. Occident got to trotting again but Jimmy did not crowd him, preferring to make his fight on the home stretch. Purdy gradually overhauled Blackbird, and at the half had collared him, passing the pole in 1:10. Blackbird now broke and skipped badly. Occident also broke badly on the first quarter pole, and was fully fifty yards behind. Governor Stanford was seen to set his teeth on his under lip as the horses turned into the homestretch, with the little bay in the rear and Purdy trotting back without a skip. Jimmy was holding a steady rein over the little bay, who began to settle down to his work. Down the stretch he came, every stride bringing Occident's nose closer to Purdy's sulky wheel. Half way down the homestretch Jimmy pulled out and at the distance pole came alongside. The excitement now was intense, and the cheers of the immense throng were deafening. The only danger now was that Occident would break, but he trotted without a skip, and as he passed the score was three lengths ahead of Purdy, with Blackbird three lengths behind Purdy, and running. The crowd cheered and yelled, and it was with great difficulty that the police kept the crowd at bay. Time—2:21. Tennant entered a complaint that the driver of Blackbird had pulled out on him twice on the back stretch, but the judges ignored the complaint. The friends of Stanford crowded around him and congratulated him warmly. Not even the owner of Occident expected the gallant little bay to close up the gap of fifty yards inside of a quarter of a mile. The pools now stood $100 on Occident, Purdy $10 and Blackbird $7 to $8.

Second Heat.—The horses got away after three starts. The tap of the bell seemed to be something unusual to Occident, and he broke badly after passing the stand. Purdy was trotting under the whip, and he and Blackbird trotted to the half neck and neck. Occident got to trotting on the first quarter, and held about the same distance from the other horses till he turned the three quarter pole. "He can't make it." "Too far." "He'll never close the gap," were some of the expressions heard among the crowd. He broke once or twice on the stretch but caught again without losing ground. Down the stretch they came, Occident fairly flying over the ground. At the distance flag he was a good length and a half behind Purdy, and it seemed impossible that any horse could trot by another in that distance, but Jimmy set himself back on the lines and spoke to the gallant little bay and he shot past the old stallion like a streak of lightning, winning the heat by a length in 2:24½. The first quarter was made in 34½ and the half was made by Purdy in 1:09½, and by Occident in 1:14, leaving Occident just five seconds behind, and counting thirty feet to the second, which is about the average at a 2:21 gait, would leave a space of 150 feet for the horse to overcome.

Third Heat.—The horses got away after four starts. The old church gong in the Judges' stand broke Occident up badly before he had passed the grand stand, and Jimmy Tennant had to pull him up, which left him sixty yards in the rear. He gained very little ground going to the half, which was passed in 1:12. Purdy having gained the lead, Blackbird kept close to Purdy all the way round. Occident commenced closing ground on the stretch, trotting without a skip. All eyes were now strained to catch the result. He passed Blackbird inside the distance flag, but the driver of Purdy put the whip along his horse's back and passed the score but half a length ahead of Occident. Time—2:25½.

Fourth heat.—The pools were still in favor of Occident, with plenty of takers for Purdy and Blackbird at $10 in $100. The horses made four attempts to start before they got the word. Occident seems to have a habit of always breaking at the first turn. He broke badly this time, and was seventy yards behind at the quarter. Purdy at once took the lead, Blackbird falling back several lengths. It was now evident that Occident could not overhaul the stallion. He trotted without a skip, and on the home stretch he made his usual spurt, but the driver of Purdy gave him the whip all the way down the stretch, and when Tennant saw how impossible it was to overhaul him he held up and came in second. Time, [illegible]

Purdy now came up, and was a favorite, those who had backed Occident getting scared and striving to hedge out even. Purdy now had two heats, and although he seemed very much distressed, always responded to the whip. Opinion was about equally divided, some arguing that Occident was pretty much used up and could not trot the fifth heat inside of 2:30. The excitement was intense, and the vast assembly of from 15,000 to 20,000 persons held their breath waiting for the next heat.

Fifth Heat.—The horses got a good start and Occident made the turn without breaking. [illegible] quarter, and opened up a gap of three lengths, but after they had reached the half Purdy had closed the gap. He then fell back a little, but at the third quarter he again collared Occident, and as they rounded the turn he came ahead, and the two trotted neck and neck down the stretch, both without making a skip, Purdy under the whip the entire distance. Occident drew out half a length at the distance flag, but he would not bear the whip, and Purdy passed the score half a neck in advance amidst the wildest cheering. Time, 2:28½. The scene of confusion and excitement which prevailed is beyond description as the Judges announced the result: Purdy the first money, Occident the second money, and Blackbird the third money.

WEDNESDAY MORNING SEPT 30 1874

THE PENITENTIARY

Senator VanCleave's bill to provide for leasing the Penitentiary and the labor of the convicts is a measure that should not be hurried through without careful consideration. After a somewhat careful perusal of the bill we are not persuaded of the wisdom of passing it.

The provisions of the bill in the main are that it makes a statutory lease of the Penitentiary buildings, shops, water-power, grounds and everything appertaining to the institution to H C Owen, John F Miller, James B Condon, John S White and O B Gibson for a period of ten years, commencing April 1, 1875. The lessees are bound to keep the prisoners safely, and provide them with good, wholesome food, warm clothing and the other necessaries of prison life, and at the end of the lease are to return all the property to the State in as good condition as when received by them, reasonable wear and unavoidable accidents by the elements excepted. They are to have the benefit of all convict labor, and to receive from the State for five years the annual sum of $20,000 from the State for keeping the prisoners, and are to receive to their own use all moneys paid by the United States for keeping its prisoners, after five years to receive such sums as the Legislature of the State of Oregon in their judgment may thereafter provide.'

The keeping of the State convicts by this method may be done somewhat cheaper than any other present plan, or at least, may appear cheaper, though we venture to predict that should this bill pass, the sequel will prove that instead of being cheaper it will be a more expensive method of keeping the prisoners. The property of the State will in all probability be destroyed, and in other ways it will be called upon for funds in the carrying out of this plan until in the end the cost of keeping the convicts will be increased rather than diminished.

Not the least important matter to be considered in connection with this subject is the question of security. Under the proposed plan the interests of the lessees will be wholly on the side of reduction of expense of guarding and there is scarcely room for a doubt that the chances of escape will be greatly increased. This is a question that can not be made second to any other, in providing for the confinement of persons convicted of crime.

The same considerations that suggest the greater liability to escapes, point to another evil. The interest of the lessees will be all on the side of cheap supplies to the prisoners. We do not urge that they should be fed and housed in the manner of princes, but they are human beings nevertheless and it does appear to us hardly right that the supplying of their wants should be dependent upon the generosity of humanity of any man or men whose pecuniary interests were adverse to the necessities of the prisoners. We should favor the leasing of the prison labor but the State should guard and care for the prisoners. This in our opinion should not be yielded to any private individual. We are aware that many of the States lease or hire out the convicts but if we are not misinformed, it is generally and under such limitations as we have here suggested.

Another feature of this measure, it appears to us is objectionable. Section 7 reads as follows:

> The lessees of said Penitentiary are authorized by and with the consent and approval of the Governor to erect on the Penitentiary grounds shops to improve the water power and to have and use thereat tools, machinery and other improvements beneficial and useful to make the labor of said convicts available, and at the expiration of said term the value of all such improvements, by them made shall be appraised and valued by the appraisers provided for by Section 4 of this Act and the appraised value of said property and improvements shall be paid to said lessees by the State of Oregon at the expiration of said term.

There is room for gross abuse of these rights and we are saying nothing derogatory of the gentlemen proposed as lessees when we say no loop-holes should be left open. It is here left entirely discretionary with the lessees to build any buildings or make any "improvements" they may be able to get a Governor to consent to and force the State to buy them, nolens volens. At the very last year the State might be run into debt to the tune of a couple of hundred thousand dollars or more with "net profits" somewhere. Before the bill passes there should be proper safeguards against this species of abuse.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY POLITICS

The conduct of the Washington Territory Republicans should be an example for those in other communities. As the time approached for the nomination of a candidate for Delegate to Congress, they naturally began to cast about them for some person to be put forward who would command the respect and confidence of the people and thus secure to the party the greatest possible number of votes. But the gratifying feature of the case was the fact that only men of good moral standing and personal character were mentioned. It was enough to give one a new inspiration of confidence in political honesty to witness the unanimity with which the old wire-pulling demagogues were ignored. It was equivalent to saying to those who have long been insisting upon somewhat of honesty and decency in politics 'You are right. A man who has no personal character is unfit for public position. We join you in demanding the practice of this principle, and we will prove our sincerity by presenting honest men for honest men to support.' Whether it was homage to principle or a prudent recognition of the improved tone of public sentiment on party matters the result is the same, and a happy result it is.

Between Judge Jacobs and E S Kearney who were the only really prominent candidates many found it difficult to choose. They both have good abilities, both possess the confidence of the people, and both are above the suspicion of any of those corrupt practices which have been the bane of party politics and the ruin of so many talented men.

Mr. Kearney acquiesces in the nomination of Judge Jacobs and will lend him a cheerful support. It is impossible to predict with any degree of certainty who will be selected by the Democracy as the opponent of Judge Jacobs. The serious and probably lasting illness of Judge McFadden, the present Delegate, will render his nomination impracticable. A new selection will have to be made. The Democracy have some good material and may if they will, present a candidate who can stand side by side with Judge Jacobs. Their Convention will meet tomorrow, and give the people of Washington Territory a chance to see the best work they can do in the way of selecting a man to look after the affairs of the Territory at the national capital.

ANOTHER

Senator Carpenter recently delivered an address at Ripon in which he took strong ground in favor of the right of the Legislatures to control the railways. He reviewed the question in a legal argument, citing the authorities and precedents for his position. Carpenter is one of the first lawyers of the nation, and takes hold of the question with the hand of a master. He holds with Judge Redfield, that corporations are subject to the power that created them, and must obey the laws as individuals are required to obey them.

This is the view the Supreme Court of Wisconsin have just expressed upon the subject. Where men invest money in railways they do not by that means place themselves and their capital beyond the reach of legal control any more than if they invested it in drays and hacks. To this complexion must it come at last and the railway companies may as well make up their minds to accept the inevitable with becoming resignation.

SENATOR SCHURZ ON THE SITUATION

Senator Schurz delivered a long and carefully prepared speech on the evening of September 24th, at St Louis upon political topics. He discussed the financial situation, reiterating the views expressed by him in his great speech against inflation in the Senate. In reference to the disorders at the South he spoke at length, blaming the Southern people themselves for laying the foundation of their present troubles in the encouragement of Ku Klux outrages, but declaring the danger now was not of Ku Kluxism but of anarchy. He said the "White Leagues" should be at once disbanded as the first step toward the restoration of order. In regard to Louisiana, while he denounced the Kellogg government as a fraud, he spoke in commendation of the course of the Administration in putting down the Penn McEnery rebellion. But he declared it to be the duty of Congress to take hold of that community and enforce obedience to law.

Not so much for the item of news it contains as for its geographical bearings, we copy this from the St Paul Press:

SUDDEN DISAPPEARANCE.—Miss Anna Wicks suddenly and mysteriously disappeared [illegible] her home last Friday evening, since [illegible] time nothing has been heard of her. The young lady is aged about 18 [illegible] adopted daughter of Mr Ed. Wicks. When last seen she took a package of school books and started to see a lady friend. So far as [illegible] have been able to ascertain there seems to [illegible] no reason in the world for her leaving home. Since the disappearance of Anna, constant, but unavailing search has been made by her parents. Chief Lappeus was notified and has prosecuted the search without abatement. [illegible] entertained by some that the young woman [illegible] destroyed herself, but the more reasonable supposition is that she is secreted somewhere in the city. We learn that recently the police have succeeded in gaining some traces of the missing one that it is known where she was up to Saturday afternoon. It is to be sincerely hoped that the young lady may yet be found. Anna Wicks [illegible] esteemed by her associates and a high [illegible] number of friends who will be pained beyond expression to learn that any harm has befallen her. Ever since her disappearance the adopted parents have been in a distracted state of mind. When the young lady left home she had the following books: first class [illegible] history, dictionary, condensed history, [illegible] rhetoric, English grammar, Smith's natural philosophy, English composition, national fourth reader, small Cornell geography, large Cornell geography, Richardson's music book and several other music books. Persons finding any books of the above class will confer a great favor by reporting the same to Mr. Wicks or Chief Lappeus.

BATTALION OF INFANTRY.—Several months ago there was some talk of organizing a battalion of infantry to consist of the Washington Guard, [illegible] Rifles, Emmett Guard and such other Companies as might be organized. We have not heard anything more of the proposed arrangement and the recent target shooting of the [illegible] suggested this subject. We do not see any good reason why these companies should not organize into a battalion with the proper officers in command. This movement would keep the Companies in better order and all would be as one in matters pertaining to military action. Instead of one company going to an annual target practice, why not all the infantry organizations, formed [illegible] go together? A committee of one or two members from each Company could arrange all the preliminaries. A spot convenient to the city should be selected, and a good portion of the day be devoted to the practice and other festivities in connection with an affair of this kind. To make it complete the battery might be included in the number participating, and thus a grand time could be had at less expense than would be incurred were each Company to get up its own excursion. We hope to see the military take up this matter which, if effected would be a mutual benefit to all concerned, and create a spirit of rivalry to gain the title of the "crack company" in the battalion.

TRIAL OF SPEED.—There being at present a considerable competition on the rivers among the several steamboat companies, it is but natural that racing between the rival boats should be of common occurrence. A few days ago a sharp little brush came off between the One[illegible] and Willamette Chief. The race took place from the mouth of the Willamette to this city. Both steamers put forth their best efforts. For a long time it was "nip and tuck," but at length the Chief managed to distance her rival by a very little odds, and came out first best in the race. On Saturday while the steamer [illegible] Harvard was coming up the river, having in tow the ship Dovenby, she came across the tug Brenham, which was towing the schooner Portland. This was an opportunity [illegible] for a test of speed which was [illegible] to pass unimproved. A contest for mastery began and continued for several [illegible]. The boats were pretty evenly matched as to power and the weight of the vessels they were towing—the Portland was considerably smaller than the Dovenby, but she had a cargo and the other had nothing but ballast. It was a long race, but we are informed the Brenham was a little to much for her [illegible] competitor. On reaching the mouth of the Willamette the Brenham was some distance ahead and the contest for speed was ab[illegible]

OLD GUNS.—Two old French guns—twelve-pounders—were taken out of the Marianne a few days ago and left at one of the iron works in the city. These guns have been used for [illegible] on board the vessel mentioned as ballast. How old they are, and how much active service they have rendered, are questions which cannot be easily solved. They have doubtless been in many engagements for, when taken from the hold of the vessel, they were spiked, which is strong evidence that they had fallen into the hands of enemies at one time. If appearances can be taken as testimony in regard to the age of the ordnance we should infer that the guns had rendered signal service during the first French Revolution or had accompanied Napoleon across the Alps, on his famous Russian campaign. The plain, rough appearance of the guns would indicate a somewhat crude state of iron mongery although the metal employed is a splendid article. One of the guns has been broken up and will be used for castings. The other will be taken up [illegible] and used in firing Fourth of July salutes etc. A French gun to be employed in firing national American salutes would not suit the fellows who cast it we surmise.

ADDITION TO THE FOUNDRY.—Within the past few weeks considerable addition has been made to the Willamet Iron Works in the way of a wharf and work shop. A second story to the wharf which is situated just east of the works has been completed. A one story shop [illegible]x30 feet has also been built, on a line with the first floor of the foundry. The room has been divided into two parts. Three forges have been erected which are to occupy one part of the building. The other portion of the building is intended to be used as a boiler shop. In a few weeks the Company propose to tear down the old building which has so long been used as a blacksmith shop as it extends out into the street and is in the way. One portion of the wharf has been left incomplete for the accommodation of the vessels now in port, in order to enable them to discharge ballast more conveniently. A second story will be built to this portion of the wharf and enclosed with a roof.

A SPLENDID TUG.—Parties commenced some days ago to apply the brush to the exterior of the hull of the tug which is being constructed by Mr J C Fox, below the Greenwich wharf. The wood work of the hull is about finished, and the launching is soon to take place. We are uninformed as to what name the new tug will have. Her dimensions are: Length [illegible] feet; [illegible] 18 feet; hold 10 feet. The knees are all double and the timbers are very large for [illegible] of the boat. A more powerfully and better constructed boat of the kind would be hard to find on these waters. The boiler and machinery used on the tug Sedalia which was burned last spring at Kalama, will be used in propelling the new craft. These are being overhauled and will soon be ready for service. It is Mr Fox's intention to put the boiler and engines in the hull before launching the boat. By or before the first of November the new tug will be finished.

SURVEY OF THE COLUMBIA.—The Assistant placed by Gen. Michler in charge of the survey, between the Cascades and Dalles, of the Columbia river, for the purpose of ascertaining the practicability and cost of constructing [illegible] reports under date of September [illegible] as follows: The map of the Columbia river from the Dalles to Celilo showing both sides of said river with high and low water channels and the positions and [illegible] of obstructing rocks has been [illegible]. Continuous lines of levels giving the height of water at close intervals, have [illegible]. By the end of the week (Oct [illegible]) the information possible at the present stage of the water, including the examination of [illegible] Gate will be obtained and we will be ready to move camp to the Cascades by October [illegible]

AT ASTORIA.—A number of large vessels are now lying at Astoria some of which are about ready to proceed to sea, having completed their cargoes. The vessels which are nearly ready for sea are the Middlesex, Moonbeam and Orissa. [illegible] the following large ships are lying there [illegible] Prince Charlie, Frank N. Thayer and City of Bel[illegible]

CITY.

SUDDEN DISAPPEARANCE —Miss Anna Wicks suddenly and mysteriously disappeared from her home last Friday evening, since which time no young lady has been heard of her The young lady is aged about 18 years, and an adopted daughter of Mr Ed Wicks When last seen she took a package of school books and started off to see a lady friend So far as we have been able to ascertain, there seems to be no reason in the world for her leaving home Since the disappearance of Anna constant, but fruitless search has been made by her [illegible] Chief Lappeus was notified and has [illegible] the search without abatement. [illegible] entertained by some that the young lady has destroyed herself, but the more reasonable supposition is that she is secreted somewhere in the city We learn that recently the police have succeeded in gaining some traces of the missing one that it is known where she was up to Saturday afternoon. It is to be sincerely hoped that the young lady may yet be found Anna Wicks is by [illegible] esteemed by her associates and a large number of friends who will be pained beyond expression to learn that any harm has befallen her Ever since her disappearance the adopted parents have been in a distracted state of mind When the young lady left home she had the following books first class book [illegible] dictionary, condensed history, Boyd's rhetoric English grammar, Smith's natural philosophy English composition national 5th reader, small Cornell geography, large Cornell geography Richardson's music book and several other music books Persons finding any books of the above class will confer a great favor by reporting the same to Mr Wicks or Chief Lappeus

BATTALION OF INFANTRY Several months ago there was some talk of organizing a battalion of infantry to consist of the Washington Guard, City Rifles Emmett Guard and such other companies as might be organized We have not heard anything more of the proposed movement and the recent target shooting of the oldest suggested this subject We do not see any good reason why the three companies should not organize into a battalion with the proper officers in command This movement would keep the Companies in better order and all would be as one in matters pertaining to military action Instead of one company going to an annual target practice why not all the infantry organizations formed into a battalion go together? A committee of one or two members from each Company could arrange all the preliminaries A spot convenient to the city should be selected and a good portion of the day be devoted to the practice and other festivities in connection with an affair of this kind. To make it complete the battery might be included in the number participating and thus a grand time could be had at less expense than would be incurred were each Company to get up its own excursion We hope to see the military take action in this matter which, if effected would provide a mutual benefit to all concerned, and create a spirit of rivalry to gain the title of the "crack company" in the battalion

TRIAL OF SPEED —There being at present a considerable competition on the rivers among the several steamboat companies it is but natural that racing between the rival boats should be of [illegible] occurrence A few days ago a sharp little brush came off between the One and Willamette Chief The race took place from the mouth of the Willamette to this city Both steamers put forth their best efforts For some time it was "nip and tuck" but at last the Chief managed to distance her rival by very little odds, and came out first best in the race On Saturday while the steamer Hayward was coming up the river, having in tow the ship Dovenby, she came across the tug Brenham which was towing the Portland This was an opportunity for a test of speed which was too good to pass unimproved A contest for supremacy began and continued for several miles The boats were pretty evenly matched [illegible] and the weight of the vessels they were towing—the Portland was considerably smaller than the Dovenby but she had a full cargo, and the other had nothing but ballast It was a long race, but we are informed the B[illegible] was a little to much for her competitor On reaching the mouth of the Willamette the Brenham was some distance ahead and the contest for speed was at an end

OLD GUNS.—Two old French guns—twelve pounders—were taken out of the Marianne a few days ago, and left at one of the iron works of the city These guns have been used for years on board the vessel mentioned as ballast How old they are, and how much active service they have rendered, are questions which cannot be easily solved They have doubtless been in many engagements for when taken from the hold of the vessel they were spiked, which is strong evidence that they had fallen into the hands of enemies at one time. If appearances can be taken as testimony in regard to the age of the ordnance we should infer that the guns had rendered signal service during the first French Revolution or had accompanied Napoleon across the Alps on his famous Russian campaign The plain, rough appearance of the guns would indicate a somewhat crude state of iron mongery although the metal employed is a splendid article. One of these guns has been broken up and will be used as castings. The other will be taken up country and used in firing Fourth of July salutes etc A French gun to be employed in firing national American salutes would not suit the fellows who cast it we surmise

ADDITION TO THE FOUNDRY —Within the last few weeks considerable addition has been made to the Willamet Iron Works in the way of a wharf and work shop A second story to the wharf which is situated just east of the works has been completed A one story shop 60x130 feet has also been built, on a line with the first floor of the foundry The room has been divided into two parts Three forges have been erected which are to occupy one part of the building The other portion of the building is intended to be used as a boiler shop In a few weeks the Company propose to tear down the old building which has so long been used as a blacksmith shop, as it extends out into the street and is in the way One portion of the wharf has been left incomplete for the accommodation of the vessels now in port in order to enable them to discharge ballast more conveniently A second story will be built on this portion of the wharf and enclosed with a roof

A SPLENDID TUG —Parties commenced some days ago to apply the brush to the exterior of the hull of the tug which is being constructed by Mr J C Fox below the Greenwich wharf The wood work of the hull is about finished and the launching is soon to take place We are uninformed as to what name the new tug [illegible] Her dimensions are Length 85 [illegible] 18 feet hold 10 feet The knees are all double, and the timbers are very large for the size of the boat A more powerfully and [illegible] constructed boat of the kind would be [illegible] to find on these waters The boiler and machinery used on the tug Sea Gull which was burned last spring at Kalama will be used in propelling the new craft These are being overhauled and will soon be ready for use. It is Mr Fox's intention to put the boilers and engines in the hull before launching the boat. By or before the first of November the new tug will be finished

SURVEY OF THE COLUMBIA —The Assistant placed by Gen Michler in charge of the survey between the Cascades and Dalles of the Columbia river for the purpose of ascertaining the practicability and cost of constructing canal and locks reports under date of Sept 27th as follows The map of the Columbia river from the Dalles to Celilo showing both sides of said river, with high and low water channel and the position and [illegible] of [illegible] rocks [illegible] Continuous lines of levels [illegible] of water at short intervals, [illegible] By the end of the week [illegible] the information possible at the present [illegible] the water including the examination [illegible] will be obtained and we will be [illegible] to the Cascades by October

AT ASTORIA —A number of large vessels are [illegible] at Astoria some of which are about ready to proceed to sea, having completed their cargoes The vessels which are nearly ready for sea are the Mid Weser, Mar[illegible] and O[illegible] The following large ships are lying there awaiting cargoes Prince Charlie, Frank N Thayer and City of Berlin

HEAVY FIRE —Early yesterday morning a heavy fire was raging in the timber back of St John During the entire forenoon huge masses of black smoke rose from the woods and darkened the heavens Up to the present writing so far as we could ascertain, no buildings or fences have been destroyed Usually every summer and fall there is more or less destruction of property by fire getting loose among the timber but thus far the present season the country seems to have enjoyed an immunity from these annual visits of the traditional fire fiend There has been great havoc committed among the timber north of the city during several weeks past but we have heard of the destruction of no property So the farming community should consider itself fortunate

STARK STREET PONTOON —Several men are engaged in digging trenches under the Stark street pontoon for the purpose of [illegible] the lower end of it down The intention is to [illegible] the pontoon in twain opposite the south east corner of the Cosmopolitan Hotel which will allow it to float up during the highest stages of water The lower end of the pontoon being anchored down cannot rise During winter when the river becomes high and filled with drift wood the ferry can move up to the point where the pontoon is cut into and avoid collisions

BEING OVERHAULED —A portable boiler and engine which some years ago was employed by the Portland Gas Company in crushing stone is now at the Willamet Iron Works It is being thoroughly overhauled We understand that this piece of machinery has been purchased by the Oswego Iron Works and that after it is overhauled it will be conveyed to the Works and put in operation to crush the ore

ANSWERING D[illegible] —We are requested to state that Rev M May will deliver a discourse at the Synagogue Beth Israel on next Sunday evening commencing at 7 30 o clock This discourse is intended as an answer to or in contradiction of the one preached last Sunday evening at the First Presbyterian Church by Rev Dr A L Lindsley A cordial invitation is extended to all Christians to be present

PRISONERS —Mr H C Paige Wells Fargo & Co s agent, arrived on the last steamer, having in custody two prisoners who are under indictment by the grand jury of Baker county for larceny These prisoners were captured at Winnemucca They were lodged in the city jail for safe-keeping This morning they will start for Eastern Oregon in custody of the officers of the law

AMUSEMENTS.

Since George Waldron presented Rosedale which enjoyed a lengthy run no play has been placed on the stage of the Oro Fino that was calculated to meet with such favor until last evening Many would think no play like those produced at Daly's Union Square Theater New York could be brought out here It is true the theater is not as well appointed as the larger ones in the great cities but nevertheless the means are at hand to make the play presentable Mrs Phelps has in her present company sufficient strength to make the cast almost perfect Led Astray, which has met with unbounded success in the Eastern cities, is a society play, and the scenes depicted are those we hear of almost every day It is the life of gaiety the gaming table, separation an appeal to the code of honor and the reconciliation The characters are ably sustained by all the members Amy Stone assuming the leading role Mrs Stone acted her part with becoming taste, and won applause at different times during the play Mr Stone was quite at home as Hector, and gained as much attention as any of the more prominent characters His ready easy style was quite refreshing Mr Fulford made himself fully acquainted with his part and acted in his usual excellent style Mrs Phelps and Mr Dudley filled their respective parts acceptably and the other members were well up in what they had to do In fact, we have never seen the company do so well before The mounting of the stage is carefully attended to, and each scene is well set We congratulate the Manageress on her success which does not seem to lessen in the least the house being almost as large as on the opening The New Magdalen is announced for to night, and this promises to attract a full house being even more entertaining than "Led Astray"

DECISION IN THE U S DISTRICT COURT BY JUDGE DEADY

All Indians born and resident in Oregon are prima facie members of some Oregon tribe and are therefore under the charge of the Superintendent of Indian Affairs in Oregon appointed in pursuance of the act of June 5 1850 (9 Stat 437) within the meaning of § 20 of the act of June 30 1834 (4 Stat 732) as amended by § 1 of the act of March 15 1864 (13 Stat 29)

An Indian born in Minnesota is prima facie not a member of an Oregon tribe though he might become such by adoption

The passage of the act of February 17 1873 (17 Stat [illegible]) providing for the abolishing of Indian Superintendencies after June 30 did not of itself abolish any such Superintendency but only took effect when and as the President designated and [illegible]

The payment of a Superintendent's salary until September 1 1873 is prima facie evidence that his office was continued until that time although he was notified that his office was one of those selected under the act to be abolished

The defendant was indicted for disposing of spirituous liquor to Indians under the charge of T B Odeneal Superintendent of Indian Affairs to wit Michelle Martineau and William [illegible] contrary to § 20 of the trade and intercourse act of June 30 1834 (4 Stat 732) as amended by § 1 of the act of March 15 1864 (13 Stat 29)

The jury found the defendant guilty of disposing of liquor to William as charged in the indictment and the defendant moved for a new trial

The ground of the motion for new trial is (1) That the Court erred in charging the jury that the Indian William was under the charge of a Superintendent of Indian Affairs appointed by the United States on August 2 1873 and (2) That the evidence is not sufficient to justify the verdict because there was no testimony that Indian William was on the date aforesaid under the charge of a Superintendent of Indian Affairs appointed by the United States

From the evidence it appeared that Martineau was born in Minnesota of a half breed Chippeway woman by a Canadian Frenchman that on August 2 1873 and prior thereto, he was living in Clatsop county, and married to a Clatsop Indian woman and that William was a Clatsop Indian about 25 years of age and the step son of Martineau

The Court charged the jury that any Indian being a member of any Indian tribe in Oregon was under the charge of the Superintendent of Indian Affairs in Oregon appointed pursuant to § 2 of the act of June 5 1850 (9 Stat 437) which authorized the President to appoint such Superintendent whose duty it shall be to exercise a general superintendence over all Indian tribes in Oregon that all Indians born in Oregon are prima facie members of one of such tribes but that an Indian born in Minnesota was not prima facie a member of any such tribe although he might possibly become one by adoption and therefore they ought to acquit the defendant of the charge, so far as the same related to Martineau irrespective of the question whether he was an Indian within the meaning of that term as used in the intercourse act.

By § 6 of the act of February 18 1873 (17 Stat 464) it is provided

That after June 30 1873 the offices of four of the Superintendents of Indian Affairs and of the clerks of such Superintendents are hereby abolished * * and the President may assign the remaining four Superintendents to jurisdiction over such agencies as he may deem proper or at his discretion dispense with any or all of the said Superintendents and their clerks

At the passage of this act T B Odeneal was Superintendent of Indian Affairs for Oregon On June 28 1873 he received a communication from the Department informing him that his Superintendency was one of the four selected by the President to be abolished under this act but he was paid his salary until September 1 and in the mean time received a communication from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs concerning the selling of liquor to these Clatsop Indians and was otherwise during this time addressed by the Inspector of Indian Affairs and the Department as Superintendent

Upon these facts the Court instructed the jury as a matter of law, that Indian William was under the charge of Odeneal as Superintendent of Indian Affairs on August 2 1873

Judicial knowledge extends to the public and private acts of the executive of the United States The evidence upon this point was therefore addressed to the Court and it instructed the jury as to the fact

Counsel for defendant insists that the office of Superintendent for Oregon was abolished after June 30th, by operation of the act aforesaid and that in any view of the matter it was then abolished by the action of the President as shown by the communication received from the Department on June 28th therefore the ruling was erroneous and a new trial ought to be granted

The act of Congress although it declares in so many words that the offices of four of the Superintendents * * are hereby abolished of itself could not produce that effect because it does not mention or indicate any particular four Superintendents In the nature of things the act could not take effect as to any particular superintendency until the President so declared If he had taken no action in the premises the act would have remained inoperative and without effect for uncertainty. Until the President gave effect to it by assigning the remaining four superintendents to particular agencies and thereby impliedly indicated the four whose offices were to be abolished or until he dispensed with any or all of said superintendencies none of them were abolished

The execution of the act was by its terms committed to the President If he did not abolish the office in Oregon Odeneal remained Superintendent of Indian Affairs The only question is was he continued in office until September 1st. The payment of his salary until that date is itself prima facie evidence of the fact It is not to be presumed that his salary was paid for two months after he was out of office Then there are the other circumstances pointing to the same conclusion

The motion for new trial is overruled

Rufus Mallory U S District Attorney

John W Caples for defendant

Upon the question of what sentence ought to be imposed upon the defendant, he was examined as a witness in his own behalf The Court sentenced him to pay a fine of $100 and the costs taxed at $146 and one day's imprisonment in the county jail

SANTA ROSA ISLAND AS A ZOOLOGICAL GARDEN

In my rambles about the island I was impressed with its capabilities for many novel and interesting experiments in addition to the homely though profitable pursuit of sheep raising. The immense extent of the range and its insular position, surrounded as it is by the deep blue waters of the Pacific, give it rare and exceptional advantages for a variety of enterprises that could not be attempted with any assurance of success on the main land. A suggestion casually thrown out by Mr More was especially fascinating to my imagination. I absolve him from the responsibility of anything more than a jocular hint, but I could not help picturing to my mind what a magnificent park this would make as a preserve for the wild game of the continent. Here is something in which tourists from the Atlantic States and foreign countries could not fail to take a peculiar interest. It would be easy to divide the elevated portions of the islands into sections of 10,000 or 15,000 acres and to stock such subdivisions with buffalo, elk, deer, antelope and other graminivorous animals common to remote and thinly settled parts of our continent. These animals would find congenial ranges in the hills and canyons of the island. Isolated from the intrusion of man they would, in a short time, largely increase in numbers. Chinese cattle and Mongolian sheep, Japanese pheasants, the Australia kangaroo, the English lop-eared rabbit, the llama of Chile and Peru and various other rare and curious animals from foreign countries, might also be introduced, so that in the course of a few years an area of 15,000 or 20,000 acres would be stocked with an abundance of game. Such an enterprise as this would be impracticable on the main land. Santa Rosa is probably the most favored spot on the Pacific Coast for the experiment. Once carried into effect there is no reason to doubt that it would not only pay in the shipment of game to San Francisco, but would render Santa Rosa a popular resort for travelers from all parts of the world. When the English, Russian or German tourist can in thirty hours be landed on a beautiful island where he can chase the buffalo, the elk, and the deer, and always be sure of some trophy of his skill, few would pass over this coast without spending a day or two at Santa Rosa. For this class of visitors and for invalids and all seeking health and recreation suitable accommodations could be provided. People who imagine they possess a monopoly of common sense, will doubtless regard all this as visionary and impracticable. But why should it be? The climate is suitable in all respects, the grazing is abundant, and the range is ample. Where cattle and sheep have enjoyed perfect health and multiplied beyond precedent it is not unreasonable to assume that other animals, whose subsistence is derived from similar sources elsewhere, will here find an equally congenial home. It is too common an error in California to disparage all novel conceptions, and throw discredit upon new enterprises. This is unworthy the progressive spirit of the age. Of all countries in the world, California offers the best field for the introduction of novelties in agriculture, stock raising and kindred subjects. Where is the limit, and who knows so much that he can not know more, save the bigot or the charlatan? Woodward was not discouraged by predictions of failure when he established his zoological gardens. The island of Santa Rosa could be made a grand zoological range, where the rarest and most interesting of our wild ruminating animals—now rapidly passing away—might be preserved in their natural state. It is not far fetched to anticipate that it would ultimately become the grand zoological garden of the world. Carnivorous animals would, of course, have to be excluded or if introduced placed under certain limits or restraints. This, however, does not form a part of the grand design. The idea is to gather together from every available source curious and interesting animals of different species whose habits of life are not antagonistic, and so regulate their range, intercourse and numbers as to derive the largest annual supply without diminution of the capital stock. Nor is it intended that the execution of this project should curtail or interfere with the present business of sheep-raising. The introduction of better breeds of sheep within the reserved limits would increase the quantity and improve the quality of the wool. There would be a gradual increase of the revenue from this source, and it will be time enough to determine the ultimate policy of increasing or diminishing the stock of wild animals after a few years experience in the practical working of the scheme.—T. Ross Browne, in the Overland Monthly.

THE CRUELTY OF VIVISECTION

In a letter to Dr Austin Flint, Jr, the physiologist, Henry Bergh, President of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, refers to a report that Dr Flint has a large number of animals kept at his rooms in Bellevue Hospital for the purpose of vivisection. Mr Bergh claims that vivisection is not only a cruelty but asserts that it is a scientific failure. Among other things he says:

It is maintained by the most eminent physiologists of the world that vivisection is not only a cruelty but a scientific failure, since the information sought to be obtained thereby is no more attainable while the body is writhing in agony than the correct hour of the day can be recorded by the clock while its machinery is totally disordered. But I go further and declare that, however accurate the result may be, the repetition of these deplorable butcheries is needless, for the reason that the knowledge acquired is already exhausted and given to the world in numerous learned treatises and visibly demonstrated by mechanical preparations, rivaling the anatomy of nature itself. Lifeless bodies furnish all the evidence necessary. At the best, therefore, these revolting scenes serve no other purpose than to procure for the young student the demoralizing excitement attendant on the enactment of a brutal, practical tragedy. In a moral point of view, is it wise, is it safe to thus extinguish within the breast of the future practitioner—he who is destined at some time to penetrate professionally the most sacred privacy of domestic life—the holy instincts of pity and compassion through such terrible agencies? Humanity and public policy respond, No! Even though these living dissections were productive of all that their advocates claim for them, in the language of a learned writer on this subject, "mankind have no right to information thus acquired." The beneficent Creator never designed that an immortal work of His hand should thus be tortured and disfigured even in the investigation of His physical laws.

According to my informant numerous races of animals are at times to be found within your operating premises in various stages of mutilation and torture; some are to be seen with the cranium removed and the brain taken out; another, its abdomen opened and the vessels leading to the liver tied in such manner as to allow nothing to enter or escape by the main channel! "The agony of this poor creature, in particular," says the writer, "during this experiment, which was prolonged six weeks, was something excruciating, and its dismal howls were frightful to hear as its whole frame was cracked to pieces." Another experiment was that of a goat with its back open to the spinal marrow in the attempt to perform a fiendish operation, which forty years before had been effected and known to all the medical world. While reading these frightful atrocities, perpetrated on innocent, unoffending animals, the inquiry springs to the lips, can the perpetrators of them be human beings? Can the brain that conceives them, the heart that tolerates, and the hand that executes them belong to the being who it is said "was made in God's own image?" As a natural and inevitable consequence of these dark deeds of which the defenseless brute is the victim, rumor ascribes to the hospital in question the infliction of cruelties on the unfortunate human beings whom accident brings within its walls as merciless in the extreme; and which, if true, merits that the denunciation of Dante should be inscribed over its terrible portals.

A CARLIST MASSACRE

You have, doubtless, by this time received all the particulars of the horrid massacre of Valfogona. There was not even the pretense of a court martial. The captive Carbineers were taken from their original place of confinement by two Carlist chiefs, Bosch and Bru, acting under the orders of Saballs, tied with ropes in couples, and conveyed on foot to Llayers, under escort of fifty Carlists. One of them, who was lame and could not bear the fatigue of the march, was dispatched with bayonets on the road and left for burial in the hands of some woodmen. Upon their arrival at Llayers the others were shut up in the parish church, where presently Federico Bru intimated to them that they were to prepare for instant execution, for "they were all rascals of Carabineros, and Saballs was determined that not one of them should live." He allowed them the assistance of three priests and only one hour's respite. They were mostly married men, and tried to save their lives by clubbing the little money they had and tendering it as their ransom; but Bru observed with a sneer that he had already their money safe at his discretion. They then snatched from each other's hands such pencils and small slips of paper as they could lay hold of, and wrote hasty farewells to their wives and families.

At 11 o'clock Bru reappeared, and they vainly implored him for the delay of another hour. But their hour had struck. Bosch drew up a shooting party in the churchyard, and a first couple was led out and made to stand with their backs against the walls of the church. The word was given, a volley was heard, and all was over with them. The report of the rifles allowed their comrades within the church no doubt as to the fate which awaited them. Pinioned as they were, they tried to embrace each other, and nerved up their courage by mutual exhortations and loving leave-takings. So affecting was the scene inside the church that one of the priests fainted and had to be conveyed to the parsonage. One unhappy pair was thus led out after another; first those who were most downcast and resigned, then those who struggled and clung to the walls, to the posts, and even to the dead bodies on the ground of the rest of their comrades who had gone before them. In the rear of the shooting party was the little Carlist party whose duty it was to dispatch with the bayonet those upon whom the rifle balls had no immediate fatal effect. At half past twelve all was over. Eighty-four perished. Only one, by name Avolas, a native of Llayers and fellow-townsman of Bosch, was allowed to go free.—Cor. London Times on Spanish Frontier, August 31st.
